Examinetics expands its occupational health screening to meet the needs of the employer's entire workforce

We call it Workforce Health

Overland Park, KS: Today, Examinetics, a workforce health solutions provider, announces the launch of a new website featuring Workforce Health.

The website reflects Examinetics' ongoing commitment to the health of their client's workforce and positive impacts on their bottom-line. Designed to improve the user experience, the new website includes clear navigation to compliance and health screening services, data management, and educational resources including case studies and whitepapers.

One of the website's new features is a Client Resources page for clients to quickly submit requests for scheduling, contact the client engagement team and access their XM Solutions account.

According to Sean West, Chief Growth Officer, "The new website mirrors our focus on the optimal health of our client's workforce across the United States."

"Building off of our past success, Examinetics is now leveraging over 40 years of expertise providing workforce screening and preventive services solutions to our customer's entire employee population thus promoting a healthier workforce within their organization," said Troy Heppner, Chief Executive Officer.

Examinetics helps businesses of all sizes, from every industry, protect and empower their employees with health compliance solutions.
